

Zara^{si} Dhoop

a film by Ayushi Agarwal

Synopsis

We delve into the heartwarming and complex relationship between Piyali, a determined 28-year-old professional, and her spirited mother, Neelam, who has been confined to a wheelchair for the past 15 years. Their bond is more than just love; it's a symphony of fights, games, arguments, laughter, and surprises that has shaped their lives in the bustling city of Lucknow.

Life takes an unexpected turn when Piyali is offered the opportunity of a lifetime, a chance to spearhead a major project for her company, but it comes with a catch - she must relocate to a different city. Piyali finds herself torn between her career aspirations and the responsibility she feels towards her mother. As the pressure mounts, a heated argument erupts between them. Harsh words are exchanged, and both mother and daughter are deeply wounded. Piyali regrets her outburst but can't turn back time. She's caught in a precarious situation where her relationship with her mother is strained, while her career and the success of her new project hangs in the balance.

Logline

In the mid heart touching drama 'Zara Si Dhoop' , Piyali, a devoted daughter faces a challenge when she is offered a life changing job opportunity in another city. As she grapples with the decision to pursue her dreams or sacrifice them to take care of her mother, their unbreakable bond is tested, forcing them to confront the true meaning of love, sacrifice and the complexities of family ties.

Director's Statement

This film is all about relationships and the feelings that make them strong. When the original story and theme was presented by Aayushi, I was intrigued by the premise and thought the characters were relatable and real.

The theme explores the complexity of relationships and the genre being drama, I wanted the challenge and do justice to the characters and the story.

I feel like the way we are showing this mother daughter duo is original and has not been seen before. It is very personal for Aayushi and myself and I hope that brings out our sincerity on screen.

Behind the Scenes

Stills

Thank you!